

2.5: Sparse Matrices

2.5.1 The Abstract Data Type

- The matrix is a mathematical object that is used to solve many problems in the natural sciences.
- As computer scientists, our interest centers not only on the specification of an appropriate ADT, but also on finding representations that let us efficiently perform <sup>the</sup> operations described in the specifications.